Las Positas College students are transferring to U.S. four-year colleges at rates higher than the average rates for students at all California Community Colleges (CCCs). LPC African American and Latino students are also transferring at rates higher than in all CCCs. The transfer rates, which were provided by the California Community Colleges Chancellor's Office, identify students who were "transfer-directed" (i.e., completed 12 units and attempted a transfer-level English or Math course within 6 years of entering Las Positas). The transfer rate is the percentage of these transfer-directed students who transferred to any college or university in the United States at 3, 5, 7, or 10 years after entering Las Positas. For the last six entering cohorts, LPC's transfer rate has been about 45 percent after 5 years and 54 percent after 7 years, with an increase to almost 60 percent by 10 years.
